Inhibition of expression of the Hsp90 α and Hsp90 β genes in PC-3 human prostate cancer cells by antisense oligonucleotides. The expression of the Hsp90 α and Hsp90 β genes is high in many human malignancies, including prostate cancer. We have developed oligonucleotides complementary to the Hsp90 α and Hsp90 β gene mRNA, targeting their expression and have investigated the effect of these antisense oligonucleotides on the cell viability and the expression of several important oncogenes. Anti-Hsp90 β oligonucleotide sensitized human prostate cancer cell lines to the effects of bortezomib, a chemotherapeutic agent, and caused apoptosis. The antisense-induced inhibition of the expression of the Hsp90 α and Hsp90 β genes was at least partially reversible, and in the case of antisense-mediated inhibition of the Hsp90 α gene, was not caused by a decrease in the stability of the Hsp90 α mRNA. However, antisense-mediated inhibition of the Hsp90 α and Hsp90 β genes was associated with decreased expression of oncogenes such as androgen receptor, HER-2/neu, and IGF-1R, despite the absence of protein synthesis inhibitors. The results indicate that antisense oligonucleotides can specifically affect gene expression in PC-3 human prostate cancer cells. Here are some of the highlights from the launch of the National Film Board of Canada's "Smoke Signals": The film, which opened the festival on Thursday, is a new song-and-dance comedy based on a true story. Reilly and Frances McDormand, and it was made at the National Film Board's Irish Film Centre. The film

Ear carriage by age, sex, season, and geographical location among schoolchildren in southern Guatemala. A cross-sectional survey involving 529 children (aged 5-17 years) was conducted between March and June 2013, to assess ear carriage by age, sex, and season, as well as differences by ecological location (urban vs rural). The carriage rate was 91.6%, and 81.1% were found to carry one or more pathogenic bacteria. Overall, rates increased with age: 5-year olds (79.8%), 8-year olds (87.0%), and 13-year olds (92.8%). The rates for girls were significantly higher than those for boys. Seasonal rates differed significantly, with the highest rates in October and November. The carriage rate increased with distance from the house (seasons and regions). The results of this study, one of the first to assess urban/rural differences in the carriage rates among schoolchildren in Guatemala, suggest that school-based intervention strategies should be implemented to reduce ear carriage. Even seasoned actors and actresses can get caught up in the must-have celeb Instagram posts, but Zainab Jah and her eponymous beauty brand haven't just cut back to retro inspiration - they've gone full-on retro glam, to the point where you could well mistake one of her collections for a NoW cover shoot from the early 2000s.
